Assembly polls: Public campaign concludes this evening

Counting Centres cordoned off

Compound construction work underway at Maharani's College of Commerce and Management in Paduvarahalli, one of the counting centres in city, to prevent people from crowding on the counting day. Picture right shows a counting hall and the partitioned area for candidates and party agents to witness counting.

Mysuru, May 10 (RK&BCT)- Even as public campaigning for May 12 elections coming to close at 6 pm today and just a day remaining for voting, the District Administration and Election Commission are preparing for the counting day on May 15.

All the logistics — from the transportation of Electronic Voting Machines (EVMs), Control Units and Voter Verifiable Paper Audit Trial (VVPAT) machines from the booths to the counting centres to the preparations at the counting centres, security and other related aspects — have been worked out and are being implemented in full swing.

Usually, the JSS College on Ooty Road and the Maharani's College on JLB Road were used to count votes. This year, however, the administration has chosen the newly-built Maharani's College of Commerce and Management at Paduvarahalli and the NIE Institute of Technology (NIEIT) at Koorgalli as counting centres. The change comes in the wake of high-profile and high-stake battles that is being witnessed this time.

COUNTING OF 11 CONSTITUENCIES

At the NIEIT, votes that have been cast at K.R. Nagar, Periyapatna, Varuna and Chamaraja will be counted. At the Maharani's College in Paduvarahalli, votes cast at Krishnaraja, Narasimharaja, Chamundeshwari, Hunsur, Nanjangud, T. Narasipur and H.D. Kote constituencies will be counted. Size wise, the Maharani's College counting centre will be the biggest one where the votes of seven constituencies will be counted.

At Maharani's, seven strong rooms have been set up, one each for seven seats. Once the EVMs and related machines are shifted to respective rooms, they will be sealed by Returning Officers. Each EVM has a unique code number and after voting, the units must be deposited in the respective containers. All the containers have been numbered and coded and the officers will store the EVMs in the containers that have been numbered according to booths/ constituencies.

Since this time VVPATs are used, they are also numbered accordingly and coded. If there is any confusion regarding voting in any booth, VVPATs are taken out and the voter data is accessed by Returning Officer.

Political Road Shows: Decline of decorum

An old Kannada idiom crisply describes the culture, more appropriately the lack of culture of a person by the expression naalige kula helithu (words spoken reveal the social background). The current scenario in the land, specially across Karnataka, going by the voluminous printed matter in dailies of all hues, portrays the heavy weights in both the national and regional political parties in poor culture solely because of the non-stop diatribe being exchanged among them on the eve of the election to the Legislative Assembly of the State slated for May 12. The verbal war being staged by them before their followers as well as public at large during the ongoing road shows in all corners of the State, including villages, is ample testimony to the decline of decorum and ascendency of acrimony in public life, much to the disenchantment of the senior citizens who are strangers to the current abysmal state of society.

The band of vociferous speakers addressing the voter-mass of the State, haranguing on the role of education in bringing prosperity to the neglected sections of the population will do well to get themselves educated with the message in a verse sourced to Hithopadesha, an ancient Sanskrit text, stating that education gives humility, humility gives character, from character one gets wealth, from wealth one gets righteous life, from righteousness one gets happiness.

Etiquette, essential for orderly interaction, has clearly become a casualty in circles of even the land's literati, far fetched to expect the delicate attribute from the politicos ruling the roost in the country which has hosted legendary orators in the past who are known to have never drifted from using refined language even under extreme provocation, while bad mouthing is like second nature to the vote-seekers of our times. The incident of two past Prime Ministers of England, belonging to rival political parties serves as an eminent example. When Benjamin Disraeli (1804-1881) was asked to explain the difference between catastrophe and disaster, he reportedly shot back saying: When William Ewart Gladstone (1809-1898) drops into the River Thames, it is a disaster; if he is rescued, it is a catastrophe. Repartee of such refined quality is beyond the present crop of leaders in the land.

In sum, the voting mass, having heard the loud-mouthed speeches of the vote-seekers, will do well to take stock of all that has come to them on a platter as it were in cold print and press the most appropriate button on the Electronic Voting Machine (EVM). Their verdict is also what awaits them in coming days.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

DAY OF BLOOPERS: Monday was the day of bloopers. Bharatiya Janata Party social media chief Amit Malviya tweeted this: "Prime Minister Modi is tearing into Congress' fake love for Dalits. He mentioned how Nehru-Gandhi parivaar treated tall Dalit leaders like Dr. Ambedkar and Sri Ninjalingappa. How NDA made Ramnath Kovindji, from a poor Dalit family, the President of India." Soon, Kannadigas on social media pointed out that Malviya needed to first get a crash course in contemporary Kannada political history, and spellings of Kannada names. People pointed out that it isn't "Ninjalingappa", but Nijalingappa. S. Nijalingappa served as the Chief Minister of Karnataka for two terms in the 1950s and 1960s and he wasn't a Dalit but a Lingayat.

Calf chases selfie-takers

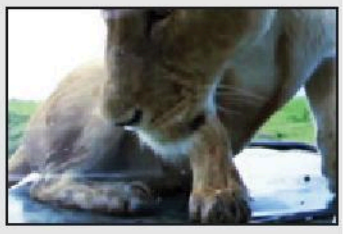
Odisha: An elephant calf which got separated from the herd was caught on video chasing people after they attempted to pose for selfies with the animal near Chhendipada Forest in Odisha.

The 4-month-old baby elephant was filmed becoming agitated at onlookers who attempted to take selfies with it. The calf chased the selfie-takers and even knocked down some of their motorcycles.

Forest Department officials said that its staff attempted to reunite the calf with her herd, but was reluctant to go back into the forest. Officials said the calf will be reunited with her herd soon.

Such incidents are taking place frequently especially in southern parts of India. In January last, a group of villagers not only disturbed a herd of elephants which had come to the village border but also separated a mother elephant from her calf and got busy clicking selfies with the calf while it was crying for its mother. The calf died a few days later after being rescued.

Safari group trapped by lion



Tanzania: A safari-goer in Tanzania shared video of the moment the tour came to a halt when a lion jumped on the hood of their vehicle.

The video, filmed during a safari in Ngorongoro Crater National Park, shows the group of safari vehicles stopped to observe some lions in the road when a curious lioness approached the vehicle.

The tourists quickly climb down from the open-air upper area of the vehicle to the enclosed lower area when the big cat jumps on the hood.

"We were terrified because the roof was open!" the filmer wrote. "Fortunately, she was not interested in fresh meat, but the warmth of the engine." The filmer said that the animal eventually got down and wandered back to the other lions.

Rapidly growing Mysuru needs Metro Rail

Sir,

Mysuru is a fast growing city in Karnataka next only to Bengaluru. We can see plenty of private residential layouts being developed by promoters in all directions extending upto Bannur in the East, Yelwal in the West, Nanjangud in the South and Srirangapatna in the North. Many villages which were in the outskirts of old Mysuru namely Metagalli, Vontikoppal, Kumbarakoppal, Kukkarahalli, Paduvarahalli, K.G. Koppal, Nachanahalli, Datagalli, Sathagalli etc. have become part and parcel of the city, still retaining their rustic charm amidst modern structures.

At this growth rate, it is time to think of future planning covering all aspects such as transport, water supply and other civic amenities, lest our city should suffer the fate of Bengaluru, where everything has reached a saturation point due to lack of proper planning by governments. It is said that Statesmen always think of the next generation, and politicians think of the next election. Unfortunately, we rarely find Statesmen these days and politicians rule the roost, occupying the seats of power with their money and muscle power.

It is time for them to think over transport problems that may arise in the next decade due to rapid growth of Mysuru and the corresponding increase in its population. Metro rail system is the only solution to ease the traffic congestion on the roads. The project, if started now, may take at least 10 to 12 years to materialise. It is right time to think over it and act upon with a positive approach by all concerned in the matter.

2018 ELECTION

2 Days to go

JD(S), Congress leaders woo voters in Naganahalli under watchful eyes

Mysuru, May 10 (MTY&NNN)- The campaigning has reached feverish pitch in one of the most high profile constituencies, the Chamundeshwari, in which Chief Minister Siddharamaiah and his friend-turned-foe G.T. Devegowda (GTD) have locked horns.

Thus, this constituency has drawn the attention of even the national and international media, as it is a do-or-die battle for the Chief Minister, who has declared that this is going to be his last electoral battle.

As the public campaigning ends today evening by 6 pm, the JD(S) candidate Devegowda and Congress leaders in the absence of Siddharamaiah, yesterday took out road shows in Naganahalli, a part of Chamundeshwari constituency.

GTD trying to attract the attention of the voters in this predominantly rural belt went on a bullock cart through the village streets on a Road Show and leader Kumaraswamy joined JD(S) at this time.

GTD was welcomed by JD(S) and BSP party workers and he was taken to Prasanna Ganapathy Temple, where he performed special pujas. Addressing the gathering, he claimed that he and former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy were sons of the village. Lauding the achievements of the JD(S) State President during his 20 months rule as Chief Minister, he asked the voters to support JD(S).

Congress Rally: After the JD(S) Road Show, the Congress workers began their padayatra at 12 noon after performing special puja at Ganapathy Temple. The workers, holding the party flag, condemned the attack on them by the JD(S) workers recently.

Former Karnataka State Women's Commission Chairman Manjula Manasa, addressing the gathering, alleged that the JD(S), scared of losing, had resorted to attacks on the Congress workers in the village. CM Siddharamaiah with his many schemes like Anna Bhagaya and Ksheera Bhagya had addressed the issues of the poor and hence asked the voters to bring back Congress to power.

Actor Madan Patel, District Congress President Dr. B.J. Vijaykumar, former Zilla Panchayat Member Nandini Chandrashekar and others participated in the Road Show.

Tight security: Due to the clashes that occurred in Naganahalli between the JD(S) and Congress workers recently, one contingent of the Paramilitary Force has been deployed to keep a strict vigil in the Constituency to see that such incidents do not recur. A CAR contingent was also deployed for some time.

CM Siddharamaiah holds Road Shows at villages in Chamundeshwari

Mysuru, May 10 (MTY&KS)- With public canvassing coming to an end at 6 pm today, Chief Minister Siddharamaiah held Road Shows at various villages in Chamundeshwari Constituency yesterday and sought support from the residents besides motivating party workers.

The CM, who began his Road Show from Hosahundi in the taluk coming under Chamundeshwari constituency, also conducted the Road Shows at Gejjagalli, Mandakalli, Kadakola, Byathahalli, Dadadahalli, Sinduvalli, Chikka Kanya and other villages where he sought votes from the villagers.

He questioned the villagers whether the leaders were convincing and bringing back those who had quit the party for petty reasons and sought answers from the villagers.

While canvassing in Mandakalli, CM Siddharamaiah, who identified a person standing near a shop as Ramappa, asked him about the political scenario in the village to which Ramappa replied that the group was divided into two about three days ago but now all of them have returned and added that everyone have taken an unilateral decision.

Meanwhile, Kadakola Nagaraju, who quit JD(S), joined Congress in the presence of the CM during his Road Show in Kadakola.

Speaking on the occasion, CM Siddharamaiah said that whenever he had contested from Chamundeshwari, the people of Mandakalli and Kadakola supported him by giving huge lead and sought the support of the people once again.

Stating that this would be his last election, he said that he would not be contesting again but would involve in active politics. He further said that he had done many development works in the villages and added that he would once again become the CM and give more schemes to the villages and urged the villagers to cast their votes in his favour and make him the CM once again.

Decoding Mythology

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

The end of the Buddha's clan

The Buddha and his followers used to always eat one meal in the house of a layman. King Pasenadi of Kosala asked the Buddha how a monk chose a house to eat at. The Buddha replied that it will be a house that one trusts. The king then asked what house does one trust. And the Buddha replied, family. To make himself trustworthy, Pasenadi felt he had to become a member of the Buddha's family, and so he approached the Sakya clan and asked them for a bride. They were reluctant but he was persistent. So he was tricked into accepting a girl named, Vasabhakkhattiya, whose father, Mahanama, was Sakyan, but the mother was a slave girl.

The story goes that Mahanama ate from the same plate as his 'low' daughter but before he could swallow the food, a messenger called him out of the dining hall so he could secretly spit out the food. Pasenadi was thus fooled. The son born of this union was named Vidudabha.

Vidudabha was never allowed to visit his maternal grandparents. When he finally did, he learnt the truth of his 'low' origins, for he saw servants washing the seat he sat on with milk and water to 'purify' it. When he told his father this, King Pasenadi disowned him and his mother instead. The family was later reunited thanks to the Buddha's intervention.

But Vidudabha took a vow to destroy the Sakya clan and raised an army after his father's death. Each time he reached Kapilavastu, he found the Buddha sitting outside the city under a tree that offered little shade. The Buddha explained that his family's love kept him cool. Realising how much the Buddha loved his family Vibudabha turned around with his family.

This happened three times. But, the fourth time, the Buddha did not intervene. He said his family, in their last life, had poisoned a river and so had to pay for post misdeeds. Karma had ripened and he could do nothing about it. And so the Sakya slaughter took place. Everyone was killed except those who entered the battlefield and symbolically rejected violence by holding blades of grass or reeds between their teeth. Everyone was killed: man, woman, child. The Buddha did not stop the slaughter.

While returning home, Vidudabha and his soldiers slept on a dry riverbed. Ants came at night and carried those who were sinless to the riverbank. The rest, including Vidudabha, were drowned in a flash flood, and their bodies were swept away by the raging river into the sea.

This story from the Bhaddasala Jatakas is very similar to the story of the death of the Yadava clan decades after the war at Kurukshetra between Pandavas and Kauravas. It is the result of Gandhari's cursing Krishna and the result of Krishna's son, Samba's prank that gets him and the clan cursed. A civil war takes place amongst the Yadavas. Here, too, blades of grass and reeds play a role — but they take lives, don't save them. Here, too, the sea plays a role; it is the witness to the massacre, not a watery grave. Like the Buddha, Krishna does not intervene, and in some stories participates in the slaughter, submitting to the ripening of karma.

Musings on...
World Idli Day

By N.K.A. Ballal,
Retd. Sr. Vice-President, ITDC

Ballal

What is so special about March 30? Well, it is the "World Idli Day." What is so special about this simple but popular dish? In layman's word, a dish made from a fermented black lentil, rice, steamed and served with either a chutney or sambar. The fermentation process breaks down the starches so that they are easily digested. Since there is no oil involved in the preparation, it is also highly recommended by doctors, post surgery or illness too. So much so, the WHO recommends this dish as the healthiest food on this earth !

Where did this wonder dish originate from? Food historian K.T. Achaya opines that idli must have been invented in the kitchens of the Hindu kings of Indonesia, and not India since they were the only ones using "fermentation" as a process of cooking. The cooks must have travelled to India and brought with them the recipe of this dish during the 800-1200 CE. The modern idli (idly) is also mentioned in several Kannada literary works but most of them refer to using the urad dal and not mention the usage of rice, the fermentation and the steaming process, which is the most unique thing about this wonder dish. Kannadigas claim that this dish has been invented by their ancestors but since it has found mention in some Tamil literature books, Tamilians too claim copyright of this wonder dish.

How healthy is this dish? Have a look:

Idli [30 gm]

Let us now explore some variations of this dish as found in our Mahaan Bharat.

1. Mallige idli or jasmine idli: The idli rice is ground with urad dal, methi seeds and fermented. Poha or sago is also added. For quick fermentation, hoteliers add soda but if one gives sufficient time for fermentation this is not necessary. In Tamil Nadu, this idli is called as khusboo idli. In places like Madurai, idli is consumed with non-vegetarian dishes during dinner in every nook and corner of the city. Extract of "amanakku" seed is also used for making the idli fluffy and extra soft in Tamil Nadu. In some hotels, coarse idli rice powder is added to the urad dal mixture to make another variation of the idli. Nowadays many a variation like ragi idli, oats idli, mini idli, millet idli etc., is being prepared for the health freaks.

Ramassery idli

Moode idli

Bamboo basket idli

2. Kancheevaram idli: This idli is basically prepared in temples. The rice is ground coarsely with fenugreek [methi], cumin, ginger powder and pepper is added to give its unique taste. Hing is optional. Even without refrigeration, this idli can last for few days.

3. Ramassery idli: This town, 10 kms from Palakkad town, is famous for its unique idli. The idlis are not in the familiar size or shape. They are flatter, they are prepared on clay containers with threaded frames. Since it is prepared on wood fire, one can make only about 100 idlis in an hour. Regular idli batter but unique preparation.

4. Moode idli from Udupi: A unique idli made by steaming the idli dough in a cup made from screw pine leaves [pandanus or kewda leaves]. The making of this cup itself is an art since the dough does not come out while steaming. The way I like to eat this dish is with coconut oil and a midi pickle [another Udupi speciality]. Can stay unrefrigerated for quite some time.

5. Goan sannas: Traditionally, this dish is made using toddy but nowadays yeast is used as fermentation medium. Goan rice is used for making this dish eaten with pork vindaloo.

6. Rava idli: A dish made with fine rava [semolina], curd, soda and steamed. It is said that the famous restaurant MTR first invented this variation. The instant variety is available in all shops across the world.

Apart from these varieties mentioned above, each State/ District of India have their own variations of this dish.

To conclude, a new idli shop has opened at the entrance of K.C. Layout called "Halli Hatti" serving a new variety of idli made in bamboo baskets (Chiblu idli) ! Unique flavour. A must try next time you visit Chamundi Hill.

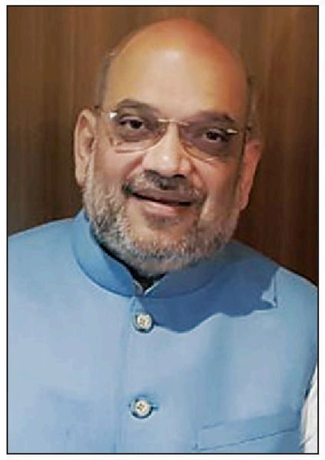
Interview of the Month...

Siddharamaiah is a disaster: Amit Shah

He is considered the operations man of the BJP. The driving force behind the steady rise of the party across the country. Considered a political Chanakya, he was in Mysuru recently on his last leg of campaigning.

My interview with Amit Shah, the President of the BJP, was scheduled for 8.30 pm at Hotel Radisson Blu Plaza. When I got there, the lobby was filled with BJP workers—some of whom, instead of talking elections, were busy making boastful claims of being close to Amit Shah.

As I waited and chatted to a few politicians, the interview time had passed. I finally got my chance at 12.15 am! As I sat with Amit Shah along with another journalist to interview him, I was surprised Shah looked so fresh. Just as I was about to ask what keeps him alert at this hour after a long day of election campaigning, I got my answer — a cup of black coffee arrived to which he added some water to lighten it and the interview began…



"Amit Shah knows his pawns, their abilities and how to move them to win. But can this Chanakya beat the strong "Siddharamaiah Congress" that has no anti-incumbency?"

By Vikram Muthanna

Star of Mysore (SOM): Why should Karnataka choose BJP?

Amit Shah: I will look at your question in a different perspective. For five years, Siddharamaiah government has ruled Karnataka and there is not a single reason why people should vote for Congress again.

To give you statistics, firstly, more than 3,500 farmers have committed suicide due to agrarian crisis and lack of support from the government. And there has been a rapid and steady increase in farmers' suicides in Karnataka. On the contrary, in Maharashtra there is a 42 percent decrease in farmers' suicides after we assumed office.

Secondly, Bengaluru has been handed over to N.A. Haris, K.J. George and Roshan Baig. Law and order machinery has collapsed and you can see examples of powerful people attacking innocents at hotels and politicians attempting to set fire to documents in government offices. I don't think that people of Bengaluru and Karnataka will forget such incidents and take them lightly.

I feel that the Congress government has not fulfilled any aspirations of the people in any parameters like development, implementation of Central schemes or extension of the strong base and image that they had got in Bengaluru.

When you compare Congress government in Karnataka with the NDA government at the Centre, the Centre has pumped in over Rs. 3 lakh crore to Karnataka, Rs. 2.19 lakh crore in the 14th Finance Commission and Rs. 80,000 crore under different schemes and programmes initiated by the Centre like the Metro Rail in Bengaluru, Railway lines, Roads, MUDRA Bank scheme and urban transportation. I have not included the Rs. 17,000 crore that has been allocated for sub-urban Railway.

SOM: Congress has claimed that the BJP manifesto is just tokenism and they have rated it 1 out of 5. What is your take on that?

Amit Shah: See, Congress will never appreciate BJP manifesto and how can they praise my manifesto? I have given you statistics in my manifesto and I have set goals and laid the path to achieve the statistics. Please find me just one statistic from Congress manifesto. What the Congress has done is tokenism.

SOM: You have changed certain names of Congress schemes and programmes in your manifesto. Like Anna Bhagya has become Anna Dasoha and Indira Canteen has become Mukhyamantri Annapurna Canteen.

Amit Shah: The loopholes in these schemes will be eliminated and re-implemented in a proper way. That is why we have renamed them. If a scheme or programme is good and is benefiting people, why scrap it? We don't believe in such politics. The loopholes in the schemes will be rectified and implemented in a new way.

SOM: Initially, the Karnataka election was on the plank of development. Now it's based on caste. Like the Veerashaiva-Lingayat issue...

Amit Shah: Tell me who brought the Lingayat issue? Don't generalise. Whose fault was this? It was Congress that raised the issue for political gains. Please print this. And also mention what BJP has done on this.

SOM: But all political parties are caught in the Veerashaiva-Lingayat chakravyuha.

Amit Shah: We are not caught in any chakravyuha. Congress tries to create such chakravyuha in States and miserably fails to succeed in every State. Why are you asking me this question? You are asking Rahul Gandhi's question to me.

SOM: CM Siddharamaiah has stated that the BJP has an understanding with the JD(S). He even said H.D. Kumaraswamy (State JD-S President) has met you. And you also have asked for proof. Your comments?

Amit Shah: I have not asked, Ananth Kumar (Union Minister) has asked for proof. If the CM has proof let him declare it. Otherwise stop making such statements. And the CM has literally stopped making such statements.

SOM: Prime Minister Narendra Modi has said that voting for JD(S) is like wasting a vote.

Amit Shah: Modi has not said like that. He has said that JD(S) is not in a position to dethrone the Congress as they operate in limited area. And this is a fact too. He has said that those who want Congress out must vote for BJP.

SOM: Now PM Modi suddenly has praised JD(S) Supremo and former PM H.D. Deve Gowda and this has led to presumption that it's politically motivated?

Amit Shah: There is no politics in this. If a person speaks nice about another person, where is politics in this? We don't do such politics. What is wrong in praising someone? And our candidates are fighting in every constituency.

SOM: You have tweeted without naming anyone about people going abroad and discussing about Tipu Sultan…

Amit Shah: No, not like that. See today Pakistan has heaped praises on Tipu Sultan. I have just drawn a similarity between the Congress and the Pakistanis. Even here too Tipu Jayanti is celebrated. Their mentality is the same.

SOM: Unlike Rahul Gandhi's Congress which you have faced in the North, in the South it is Siddharamaiah's Congress which is considered stronger?

Amit Shah: Siddharamaiah's Congress?! He has been in Congress for what ?...5 years? 8 years?

SOM: As a politician, how will you assess Siddharamaiah?

Amit Shah: As a politician I don't need to assess him. But as a Chief Minister…he has failed, he is a disaster.

SOM: How do you compare your campaign in Karnataka to the North.

Amit Shah: See, in politics there is no such thing as South India and North India. There is only language differences and the politics has its own DNA. And it goes according to that.

SOM: Corruption was the biggest plank when BJP got into the campaign mode in Karnataka. But you have given tickets to such candidates who are accused of corruption… Like the Reddy brothers in Ballari.

Amit Shah: Even now, corruption is the biggest issue. Tell me what accusations our candidates are facing…Tell me one case and one FIR… There is not a single case against them and nothing has been proved.

SOM: What about (former CM and BJP's CM candidate) B.S. Yeddyurappa?

Amit Shah: Even with Yeddyurappa, not a single case has been proven. In the pending case, if the Karnataka government has not appealed, how can I tell the government? Rahul Gandhi has to tell. If the government had appealed, the Supreme Court would have cleared Yeddyurappa's name by now and you wouldn't have got a chance to ask this question. That is why the Karnataka government is not appealing in the Supreme Court because they know the case will be dismissed. They very well know that the case will not even be admitted in the Supreme Court.

SOM: When Prime Minister Modi had come to Mysuru in 2014, he had said that the Centre would like to improve Mysuru tourism and make it as good as Paris. Does the BJP have any plans for Mysuru city?

Amit Shah: You must ask Yeddyurappa, but from the party side we have dedicated a chapter for tourism in our manifesto. I have travelled across Mysuru during the last three months. There is a huge potential for tourism in Mysuru and it has a very rich culture. Even Karnataka has very rich culture and it is perhaps richer than any other State in the country. People who get elected have to formulate tourism-centric plans and programmes as there is good scope.

SOM: You visited Varuna for the first time after Yeddyurappa's son Vijayendra was denied a ticket from there. How did you feel? Does the party candidate have the support of the BJP workers there?

Amit Shah: Yes, the candidate has the support of BJP. It is not just Vijayendra whose ticket has been denied. There many aspirants who have not got tickets. There were at least 15 to 20 claimants in each seat.

SOM: Last time you changed three Chief Ministers. This time, will you be more stable?

Amit Shah: This time, there is no government at the Centre that destabilises and throws off State Governments.

SOM: But the Lingayat community feels the BJP will betray Yeddyurappa again...

Amit Shah: See, this is a misinformation spread by Congress. We have declared that Yeddyurappa is our Chief Ministerial candidate. The question of betrayal does not arise. And the party is staunchly behind Yeddyurappa.

SOM: Then will it be a five-year mandate for Yeddyurappa?

Amit Shah: Yes. Absolutely. And there is no confusion.

SOM: Congress, during its rule in Karnataka, neutered the Lokayukta and created the Anti-Corruption Bureau. If BJP comes to power, will the party strengthen the Lokayukta?

Amit Shah: Absolutely. We have mentioned this in our manifesto.

SOM: But Lokpal has not been appointed by the Centre where BJP is in power.

Amit Shah: The Centre is not the only body that is involved in the process of constituting Lokpal. We can take the initiative. There is the Chief Justice of India, leaders from all political parties will be there. Mallikarjuna Kharge (Congress leader in Lok Sabha) does not even come to the Lokpal meetings.

SOM: Southern States are facing the problem of river water sharing. As the President of a National party, what is your view?

Amit Shah: It is not only the question of Southern States. It is there everywhere. There is a set mechanism and the States have to follow. The problem is when the mechanism is violated, States go to the courts and the issue prolongs. As the case is in the Supreme Court, it is better not to comment.

SOM: So if BJP wins in Karnataka do you think the Cauvery water issue between Karnataka and Tamil Nadu will be sorted?

Amit Shah: Naturally. Wherever BJP government is in power, things have been smooth. Like Narmada water dispute. Where is the dispute now? The dispute between Maharashtra and Gujarat over Tapi river water sharing has also been solved and there was not a single protest.

SOM: Now, we have to ask you some question in lighter vein. People say they have never seen you laugh...

Amit Shah: No no, of course, I laugh... main hasta hunji. Laughs.

SOM: Some BJP leaders mentioned that you are on a weight-loss spree after being told to do so by the PM.

Amit Shah: It is not like Modi has said it but I have indeed reduced. Because of my weight, I was facing some health issues. It is right that I have reduced 30 kgs, but this is not for public consumption and it is my personal issue... Laughs and asks (why you ask these things).

SOM: But you can be a role model to many as you have reduced so much of weight…

Amit Shah: There are many things where I can be a role model (laughs…)

SOM: People call you Chanakya. Interestingly, you have been the President of Chess Association. You like chess and is there any similarity between chess and politics?

Amit Shah: Yes. I was the Chess Association President and at that time, we did an experiment where playing chess was made compulsory in primary schools of two districts in Gujarat. This experiment gave good results as the children developed good IQ. Chess is such a game where a person acquires the skill to formulate strategies and the game sharpens one's mind.

Amit Shah is shrewd, there is no doubt. He also has an air of "will do whatever it takes to win." But he is also calm, collected and aware of the machinations within the BJP. And yes, Amit Shah knows his pawns, their abilities and how to move them to win. But can this Chanakya beat the strong "Siddharamaiah Congress" that has no anti-incumbency? We will know in five days.

"Tell me who brought the Lingayat issue? Don't generalise. Whose fault was this? It was Congress that raised the issue for political gains. Please print this. And also mention what BJP has done on this."

Muslim girl from Mandya meets PM Modi

Thanks him for his help to pursue MBA

Bengaluru, May 10- Karnataka Assembly election witnessed a heart-warming incident amid a communally polarised environment. A Muslim girl from Mandya met Prime Minister Narendra Modi to thank him for providing financial assistance to pursue her education. She came all the way from Mandya to say "thank you" to the Prime Minister whose personal intervention enabled her to fulfil her higher education dream.

B.B. Sarah and her family members met Narendra Modi on stage at an election rally in Bengaluru on May 8 and presented him the book, 'The Buddha and His Dhamma.' The Prime Minister was humbled by her gesture and turned emotional on stage. He blessed her and wished her good luck for her future.

PM Narendra Modi blessing B.B. Sarah on stage at an election rally in Bengaluru on May 8 where she presented him the book, 'The Buddha and His Dhamma' and thanked him for his help.

B.B. Sarah

Sarah had written to the Prime Minister about her poor financial condition and requested him to provide financial assistance to her so that she could pursue MBA. She dreamt to do a masters course after scoring 83% in B.Com.

Her father Abdul Iliyaz, who works in Mysore Sugar Mill, had not received his salary for months, which left Sarah unable to find Rs.1.5 lakh that she needed to pay her tuition fees. She tried applying for loans, but was rejected by several banks as the financial condition of her family was bad.

That is when she wrote to the Prime Minister. To her surprise, the PMO responded to her letter in about 10 days and had asked the then State Chief Secretary Subhash Chandra Khuntia to take necessary steps to help the girl. She was subsequently sanctioned a loan of Rs.1.5 lakh by Vijaya Bank.

Before she wrote to the Prime Minister, the Central Bank of India had turned down her loan application owing to her poor financial background. Even after the communication was received by the Bank, the Central Bank Manager allegedly told her "we have done our duty and you have also done your duty. But it is not possible to sanction the loan." Later, moved by Sarah's case, Vijaya Bank sanctioned the loan.

It may be recalled here that Star of Mysore, on Mar.21, 2017, had published Sarah's story in a report titled "PM Modi opens door for Muslim girl's education in Mandya; Directs Bank to provide educational loan"

"I would like to personally meet Modi and thank him for helping me with education loan at a time when I was in urgent need. I was watching 'Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao' programme on TV and this inspired me to write to the PM. I wish that Modi will bring out a scheme to help talented students like me who want to get involved with higher studies but face financial constraints to do so," she said.

After meeting the Prime Minister, Sarah said, "Despite being a national leader, he is attached with the population. Whatever schemes he has initiated, he has implemented them. He has not launched them just for name sake purpose," Sarah said. The girl's father echoing similar sentiments lauded the Prime Minister for his apt response. "It's quite unbelievable that out of 125 crore population, he took notice of Sarah's letter and helped her," he said.

Sarah has now completed MBA flying colours has now been employed in a multinational company in Bengaluru.

Iranian lady bowled by Indian tradition

Performs Sarpa Dosha Nivaran Puja

Mysuru, May 10- In a diverse country like India where religion, tradition and culture is deep rooted, the people have immense faith in religious practises and it has come to the Indian psyche from time immemorial.

The many texts, fables and epics depict such practises abound. Even in the western minds, these Indian faiths resonate.

An Iranian woman Maria, who has come to Mysuru being inspired to learn yoga for health reasons, is now bowled over by the religious practises.

Finding that she is facing many uncertainties in life which is causing problems for her, she approached Amruteshwara Temple's M.Y. Kumar, with her date of birth.

On seeing Maria's birth chart, Kumar told her that she has 'Sarpa Dosha.' (According to some astrologers this Dosha occurs due to killing of a serpent by someone in the family in the past and this Kala Sarpa Dosha affects generations if not rectified).

In order to ward off this effect, Maria was asked to perform the puja on the banks of Cauvery river in Srirangapatna on Tuesday (May 8). She performed the pujas according to tradition with complete faith. Yesterday (May 9) also she performed Sarpa Samskara, homas and Ashlesha Bali puja, said Kumar.

It is heartening to see that while many in our country ridicule such practises, a foreigner has kept faith in our age-old practises.

Other entry points of the strong rooms (including windows) are sealed in such a way that no one has access inside them. Entry point of strong room having EVMs has CCTV coverage round the clock.

A log book will be maintained by the security personnel where entries are made about date, time, duration and name(s) of anyone entering the strong rooms.

Apart from 70 CCTV cameras, focus lights have been installed in front of the strong rooms and surrounding the building. The authorities have established a dedicated electricity line to the strong rooms and have disconnected the original power supply. It has been designed in such a way that the lights have automatic sensors and they switch on as soon anybody enters the vicinity. Officials said that a dedicated power line was to prevent the incidents of short-circuit and sabotage.

In each hall where the votes are counted, 14 tables have been set up and each table has three chairs where only officers will sit. Each counting hall has separate entry as well as exit doors, duly guarded.

Each hall is divided into parts and is separated by temporary meshed partitions. Party agents and candidates have to stand behind the partition and they will have no contact with the officials counting the votes.

There will be separate entrance for candidates and their agents and counting officers. Public will not be allowed inside and the entire sections will be guarded by paramilitary forces. It is not possible for anybody either to move from one hall to another without coming out of the hall. Further, the partition is erected in such a way that it is impossible to slip any material from one section to the other.

FOOL-PROOF ARRANGEMENTS

The entry and exit points have been marked along with the place where candidates can stand. Officials told Star of Mysore that the arrangements are fool-proof with no room for doubt. A separate section has been set up where all the CCTV cameras are connected to monitors and there will be second-by-second monitoring by officers.

A dedicated server room has also been established and linked to 65 computers that will be used by election observers, District Election Officers and the media to transfer data to their respective newsrooms. Internet connections have been provided and a hotline with the Election Commission and the Police has been set up.

FOOD AND LOGISTICS

For the food and other logistics for officials, the quadrangle will be used and scaffoldings have been set up to divide the sections. Officials will use both the floors at Maharani's College for counting while they will use only one floor at NIEIT.

As Maharani's College will host the counting of the high-profile Chamundeshwari constituency where Chief Minister Siddharamaiah is fighting a bitter electoral battle with his former aide G.T. Devegowda, there are chances of people crowding the college. To prevent this, a compound wall is being constructed on a brisk pace and there will be restricted access.

SECURITY ARRANGEMENTS

A three-tier cordoning system has been set up at the counting premises to prevent the entry of unauthorised persons. The periphery around the counting campus has been demarcated as pedestrian zone. No vehicles will be allowed within this perimeter except for official vehicles.

While the security inside of the compound wall will be managed by the paramilitary forces including Border Security Force, Indo-Tibetan Border Police and the Rapid Action Force, the outside security will be manned by different units of the city Police.

No person without duly issued authority letter or photo ID-card issued by the concerned election officer or media pass will be allowed to cross the gate.

A senior Police officer will be posted at the entrance to control crowd and regulate entry.

Stringent frisking will be made by the security personnel to ensure that no prohibited items like matchbox, arms etc. are carried inside the counting halls.

Election duty: Bus services not likely to be hit on May 11, 12

Mysuru, May 10 (MTY&NNN)- The Election Commission is renting out the Karnataka State Road Transport (KSRTC) buses for the mustering and de-mustering for the Assembly elections to be held on May 12. However, this will not affect the commuters as enough buses will be provided.

In all, 165 buses from the KSRTC rural depot has been hired and an additional 25 buses have already been taken by the Police Department since the last ten days. Another 179 buses from KSRTC urban depot has been hired, said Divisional Controller (Rural) M. Vasu and Divisional Controller (Urban) K.H. Srinivas respectively, speaking to Star of Mysore here this morning.

The buses will be handed over to the District Electoral Officer early tomorrow morning (May 11) at 6 for the election duty, said the officials.

As per the charges fixed by the election wing of Department of Personnel and Administrative Reforms (DPAR), the Election Commission pays Rs.10,000 per bus which includes the cost of fuel and for two days it will cost Rs.20,000 per bus.

However, both Vasu and Srinivas assured that the regular bus commuters will not be put to inconvenience as arrangements for sufficient buses had been made. In case there is a heavy rush then more trips will be made, they added.

Mysurean among 3 Cops killed

Due to the impact of the accident, the truck, after hitting the jeep from the front, pushed it to some distance and came to a screeching halt. While Balegowda was seated in the front seat along with Venugopal, Shivaswamy was seated at the back seat. All the three died on the spot.

Seeing the accident, other commuters on the road rushed to the help of the victims but they were unable to extricate the bodies as the jeep had got attached to the front portion of the truck. The Bagalkot Police were informed and a team of Policemen arrived to pull out the dead from the mangled jeep.

Police said that Shivaswamy was 55 years old and hailed from Heggadahalli village of Hullahalli hobli in Nanjangud. He was recently promoted from Sub-Inspector's post to Inspector and was transferred to CID.

He earlier served in the District Special Branch, Chamarajanagar, Yelandur and Male Mahadeshwara Hills.

Shivaswamy leaves behind his wife and three daughters.

A pall of gloom has descended over the CID office at Carlton House in Bengaluru where the family members of all the deceased have arrived.

While the families are devastated after losing their breadwinners, officers are shocked as they have lost a Dy.SP, an Inspector and Department driver.

Guasa Therapy training held at Jain Chikitsalay

Mysuru, May 10- Chinese Guasa Therapy training programme was conducted at Jain Chikitsalay, a unit of Sri Sthanakvasi Jain Yuva Sangthana, Mysuru, on Thyagaraja Road, near Sai Baba Temple in city recently.

Trainer K.G. Gururaj, who imparted a three-hour training on Guasa Therapy, said that Guasa was capable of detoxifying and maintaining health as well as curing various chronic diseases. In gua sha, a technician scrapes your skin with short or long strokes to stimulate microcirculation of the soft tissue, which increases blood flow. They make these strokes with a smooth-edged instrument known as a gua massage tool. The technician applies massage oil to your skin, and then uses the tool to repeatedly scrape your skin in a downward motion.

Describing Guasa as a 3rd century BC therapy, he said that kings and soldiers used gold coin for guasa therapy which has no side effects and cures the systemic diseases in just few sessions.

Earlier, Rajan Baghmar, President of Sri Sthanakvasi Jain Yuva Sanghatan, welcomed.

Past President Umesh Kothari rendered invocation. Past Secretary of Sri Sthanakvasi Jain Sangh B.K. Deepak Kumar Jain introduced the trainer. Vice-President Manohar Sankala proposed a vote of thanks.
